U. S. PROBES PLAN TO END COUNTERFEITING

Will Refuse, However, to Give Freedom to Prisoner in Exchange For Scheme.

Treasury Department officials are prepared to investigate a plan to prevent counterfelting, which Peter Feldkamp, a prisoner in the Wayne county, Mich., jail, claims to have perfected. Feldkamp is serving a term for counterfelting, and he wrote a letter to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, saying that in his work he had discovered this process, which will make counterfeiting impossible.

A secret service operative in Detroit has been detailed to visit Feldkamp to obtain details. Feldkamp wants to exchange the secret for his freedom and job in the Treasury Department at Washington.

It was declared today, that under no circumstances would the Government enter into such a bargain with the man. If he wishes to give up the process, Government's experts will take it up for analysis as to its worth, but there will be no conditions attached to its submission, it is declared.

The letter from Feldkamp is but one of scores that come to the Secretary from convicted counterfeiters, many of whom claim to have such a process which they would exchange for freedom.

Feldkamp is a photographer and chemist, and did some remarkable counterfeiting work. He says that he fell upon the process in this line of endeavor. His process is a chemical one, it is claimed, and so colors the bill that it cannot be bleached, and has a tint which cannot be duplicated.

Aldermanic Famine Delays 40 Weddings

Couples Wait Hours Till Fire Department Sends Automobile for Magistrate.

NEW YORK, July 18 .- A hurry call was sent out for aldermen yesterday, but not one of the seventy-three in the city would respond. This left forty couples in the marriage chapel in the municipal building waiting more than four hours to be married, a ceremony which was finally performed in all forty cases by Magistrate Norman J. Marsh, of the Harlem Police Court, who was brought down town in one of Fire Commissioner Adamson's automobiles.

Yesterday, a dozen couples who had waited in vain for an alderman Friday afternoon appeared at the marriage chapel. They were joined by twenty-eight more couples. Trips to the city hall produced no alderman and telephone calls brought the information that aldermen were too busy or else getting ready to leave the city over Bunday.

At length Matthew Dobbins, of Combut not one of the seventy-three in the getting ready to leave the city over Bunday.

At length Matthew Dobbins, of Commissioner of Accounts Wallstein's office, who is putting the city's new marriage chapel in order, telephoned Magistrate Marsh, who said that he might be able to get away from the Harlem court after a large number of cases had been disposed of, if some-body would come up and get him. A search was begun for one of the city department automobiles, resulting in the proffer of a car by the fire commissioner.

Late in the afternoon Magistrate Marsh arrived at the marriage chapel and spent nearly two hours tieing the knots.

Bomb, Sent to Governor,

BT. PAUL, July 18.—A small paste-beard box addressed to Gov. W. S. Hammond and containing a cartridge to which was attached a fuse, was opened by Secretary C. M. Andrist, in the governor's office in the capitol. Governor's office in the capitol.

Governor Hammond was out of town.

His secretary, discovering the contents of the package, notified the police, and it was taken in charge by detectives.

LAYS DISCONTENT TO INEFFICIENCY

Mrs. Clarence Burns Says Vocational Training Will Help Toward Efficiency.

NEW YORK, July 18.-"Underlying our industrial and social discontent is inefficiency. An efficient person is happy, contented. Anything that will make for a change in our national life in this direction is to be welcomed."

So said Mrs. Clarence Burns, wellknown philanthropist and clubwoman, now actively interested with other wellknown women and men in preparing the program for the American Educational Conference, to be held here for a week, beginning September 23. The purpose of the conference is to enhance interest in the work of vocational training in the schools of the country.

"Leading educators of the country will discuss all phases of vocational training for girls and boys at the con-ference," said Mrs. Burns at Biltmore ference," said Mrs. Burns at Biltmore headquarters of the committee. "I believe that it is one of the most important pieces of work New York women have ever undertaken.

"Bociety is really suffering today from marked inefficiency," said Mrs. Burns, who, with a group of well-known clubwomen, labored with the State legislature for years trying to induce it to see the necessity for appropriating funds to establish a girls' trade school here.

Cites the Servants.

"Take the servant class, for instance," said Mrs. Burns. "A large percentage of servants are always disgruntled because they are not getting the wages they are led to believe they can command when they come to this country seeking employment. The mistress at the same time is unhappy because of the innumerable petty annoyances that arise with the employment of untrained this work.

"We have only to consider the French chefs of our big hotels here earning salaries of from $6,000 to $10,000 a year to see the value of such special training. The cooking of these chefs, which is at once an art and a science, pleases their patrons, and the chef is made happy by the knowledge that such perfection not every one's work ean give. their patrons, and the chef is made happy by the knowledge that such perfection not every one's work can give.

"Again," said Mrs. Burns, "take the Paris dressmaker. He makes his work a life study. He builds his foundation of knowledge at the art school. He studies lines and form, and then takes a course at the school of designing. He is well equipped to undertake the work he has chosen. But he is not just content to earn a living. He goes on developing this art—for art it is—until it reaches a high state of perfection, and the fact that he has been able to do something well and please others affords him satisfaction.

"The crying need today all over the world is for greater efficiency in all things. True efficiency is one of the rarest things in the world today. I believe the next decade will se a wonderful change wrought by greater application of this idea. Vocational training is certain to work a social evolution in this country.

"There are scores of persons, of course, with adaptability and unusual energy who will succeed at almost any work they are put at, but if it were possible by some other arrangement than the one we have had to help girls and boys to find the work for which they are best fitted and which they will grow to like with a healthy interest in their work we shall be considered. interest in their work we shall be going a long way to help solve some of our most vexing problems."

MRS. A. TOWLES,

Classified Advertising Manager. The Wasnington Times.

Sir-I had a pair of discarded shoes and noting the advertisement in The Times of the Cosmopolitan Shoe Repair Shop decided to see if they could repair them. This shop put entire new bottoms (sewed) and rubber heels on and did such an excellent job that they are almost as good as new and some who have seen them actually thought they WERE new, and the cost was less than one-third the price of new shoes.

They are far ahead of the usual shoe shop, do better work, are better equipped, and certainly their charges are less. Very respectfully,

Dear Sir—Some time ago, being in need of a tennis racket, as I like the game very much, I was at a loss where to purchase one, being a stranger in the city. Happening to look in The Times one day I saw Walford's Sporting Goods Store advertisement in Pennsylvania avenue, and I decided to try them. It is needless to say that I bought one which has given me excellent service since, and the price was low considering the quality of the racket. I recommend Walford's to anyone in need of a tennis racket. Yours respectfully,
